LONGWORTH-CANNON TILT

Ohio Congressman Publicly Declares
Cannon Cannot Be Re-elected—
"Uncle Joe" Roused.
(BY UNITED PRESS.)

New York, Aug. 18.—The newspapers today are outspoken in declaring that there is now an open breach between Roosevelt and Taft. One report is that the deal to overthrow Roosevelt was part of an agreement to deliver the state of New York to Taft for reelection in 1912. At Oyster Bay today Roosevelt began to get back vigorously into the political game.

and many visitors were received. All, however, avoided the correspondents and got away without their names becoming known.

"Pie" for Democrats.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—Speeches by insurgent republicans furnish a large part of the democratic campaign textbook just issued by the democratic national committee. Dillier, Cunnings and La Follette are among the insurgent senators whose attacks on party measures are extensively quoted.

Longworth Attacks Cannon.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 18.—Reflecting views of the administration, it is generally believed, Representative Longworth, of Ohio, today gave out a statement in which he says he will never support Speaker Cannon again, and that he does not believe Cannon ever can be re-elected. This is regarded as an actual beginning of the real fight on Cannon.

Longworth says in his statement that he had not intended announcing his position as to the Speaker before the meeting of the next House but that since Cannon has in public speeches declared his intention of again being a candidate for the speakership he deems it his duty to state his views. He does this by openly declaring his opposition to Cannon's reelection as Speaker, and the avowal that he is convinced Cannon cannot be again elected Speaker. Longworth says he supported Cannon five times, and voted once against his removal but cannot do so again, and repeats his intention to oppose his reelection as Speaker. He declares he makes this statement on his own responsibility and upon the suggestion of no one else.

Report of "Uncle Joe."

Danville, Ill., Aug. 18.—Speaker Cannon when shown a dispatch from Beverly regarding a statement given out by Representative Longworth said: "Cannon declines to answer any statement which Nichols Longworth may or may not have made until he sees it. I do not answer any statements which I believe to be false that malicious parties make. It is time enough for me to answer the President of the United States if he has any statement to make touching on the Republicanism of the speaker of the House of Representatives when he makes that statement under his own hand. I'll not fight windmills filled by breezes blown from lungs of political or personal enemies or cowards."

FRANCE ACCEPTS
VIRGINIA'S GIFTBronze Statue of Washington Was Unveiled in Palace at Versailles
With Great Ceremonies.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Paris, Aug. 18.—Soldots has the famous Palace of Versailles, which has been the scene of many history-making events, including the signing of the treaty ending the American Revolutionary war, witnessed a more brilliant and distinguished assembly than was gathered in the Marble Hall of the palace today, when with ceremonies befitting the occasion, the bronze statue of George Washington, presented to the French people by the State of Virginia, was unveiled by a local descendant of the Marquis de Lafayette.

Grouped about the speakers stand which was completely covered in red, white and blue bunting and decorated with French and American flags, sat many high officials of France, members of the diplomatic corps, representatives of patriotic societies and other invited guests. Included among the latter were many prominent members of the American colony in Paris.

The official program began with an invocation, followed by the address of presentation, which was made by Col. James Mann, heading the committee representing the State of Virginia. The other members of the committee Messrs. King and Hubay, also made brief addresses. The statue was accepted in behalf of France by M. Pichot, the Minister of Foreign Affairs. The formal exercises concluded with an address by M. Julesard, the French Ambassador to the United States.

The statue is a replica of London's famous statue of Washington. Houston went to America in 1780, spent two weeks in Washington's guest of Mt. Vernon and made a mould of his face. He returned to France and the statue was made in Paris of marble, was sent to America and since remained in the Virginia capitol at Richmond.

The gift of the replica to France was made under a law passed by the General Assembly of Virginia as an expression of Virginia's cordial admiration and loving regard.

GOVERNMENT AGENTS IN THE CITY TODAY

Seek Material for Report to Washington on Good That Will Be Derived From Deep Waterway.

For the purpose of securing the material for a complete and accurate report on how the proposed deepening of Rock River from Sterling, Ill., to this city will affect the cities situated on the above named stream, Attorney William A. Meese of Moline, Ill., and James C. Dunn, representing the United States engineer's office at Rock Island, Ill., arrived in the city this morning and were conducted about the city by L. G. DeArmand, secretary of the Industrial and Commercial club.

Local shippers and manufacturers are being interviewed in order to ascertain what saving could be made in transportation charges and also for the purpose of securing statistics on the amount, kind and quality of freight shipped out yearly. Another purpose of the present visit is to learn what the cities, through the industrial officers, are willing to grant as regards freight terminals, transfer facilities, dock sites and flourage privileges. What leading industries are willing to contribute should the government begin the work, will also be ascertained.

According to reports, the government agents are meeting with a cordial welcome from other cities, Rockford in particular, hailing the project with enthusiasm. A preliminary report, containing the information which is now being officially secured, was made out last spring by Andrew Gibbons of the Hanson Furniture company.

Mr. Meese, who has been working to further the navigation plan for several years and who has been present at the meetings held in Janesville has the following to say with regard to the project:

"The first report declared the plan feasible but it did not contain enough argument. The people from Sterling to Janesville, not having any water boating commerce, were slow to become interested.

"Two things have done much to create sentiment in favor of the plan. Congressman Lowden secured an appropriation of $75,000 for a lock in the new Sterling dam. This, together with the establishment of a connection with the drainage canal and the Fox River, puts Sterling in direct communication with Chicago by water and makes that city a competitive point with a water rate.

"Rock river is a more feasible proposition than many of the European rivers that carry an immense commerce. A suitable type of boats must be used, of course, and the U. S. government through the Rivers & Harbors committee is spending $300,000 in providing craft that shall be used as patterns.

"There are so many water power dams between Janesville and Sterling that if the river is improved there will be a large number of pools back of the dams, hindering waterway navigation. If we can get the government committed to the Janesville & Sterling project, there is no question but that revenues from the increased water power business along the river will assist the government in buying the Horicon marsh and converting it into a reservoir in which may be impounded and released as needed sufficient water to insure navigation at all seasons, steady power, and what is of more importance—a flow of water that will effectively carry off all the sewage from this big valley."

"Once the stream is made navigable between Sterling and Janesville, the cities will be placed in competition and not only the cities on the river but those within a 20 mile radius will get the benefit of a water rate."

SHUT-INS TO HEAR SERMONS BY 'PHONE

Telephone Apparatus Will Be Placed on Pulpit and Connected With the Various Homes.

[EXCERPT TO THE GAZETTE.]

Clinton, Aug. 18.—One of the most modern devices in the line of telephone engineering is to be installed soon in Clinton. Numerous patrons of the local telephone company have made requests to the company to install a telephone apparatus in the Baptist church, whereby the "shut-ins" or those who are forced to remain at home on Sunday may hear the sermon as it is delivered from the pulpit. A powerful transmitter will be put on the pulpit and this connected with the various homes where the service is desired, the words of the minister being caught by the machine and carried over the wire to the "shut-in." All the latest improvements in telephony will be put in with the device. The Clinton church is undoubtedly the first in the state or in nearby states to give this service to its people.

THERE ARE OTHERS

"Popper" Tells All About His First Evening With the Wonderful New Baby.

Dear Aunt Eleanor:

Little Miss Smith (weight 10 pounds) arrived at the Methodist hospital at 9 last evening.

So far as human intelligence can foresee Margaret and the little one are both in apple pie order. And speaking from a purely unprejudiced viewpoint, she is really the most remarkable baby, in many respects, you ever saw.

And, believe me or not, when she was about half an hour old she looked up at me and grinned. Margaret says this is all bosh, but I guess I've been on earth long enough to know when a lady smiles at me, whether she is smiling at me or not. And I like to believe that she actually recognized her "popper" and to take it as an omen that we are destined to become really chummy.

Hoping that you will drop in on us soon, I remain, sincerely,

Eb.

P. S.—In my haste I may have neglected to mention the fact that she weighs 10 pounds, and is really something out of the ordinary.

P. P. S.—Say, do you think those hospital nurses are the wise gazelles they are cracked up to be? Last night when I first saw baby she started in to cry a little, and I wanted to pacify her with some nice chocolates, and would you believe those buttin' sky's wouldn't let me? I'm going up to the hospital tonight with a sack of buttercrunch and you bet I'll find out whether I'm to have any vexes in the raising of my own daughter (weight ten pounds).

P. P. P. S.—Margaret and I had quite a little argument last night about baby. She's not on Wellseeley and I am equally prejudiced in favor of Vassar. Present indications, however, point to a compromise in favor of Wellseeley.

Dean Swift protested against "speculations, operations, preliminaries, ambuscades, pallsades, communiques, circumlocution, battalions" as now-forgotten expressions brought into common use by the war of his day. Today none all these are the most orthodox English. In his time "mob" seems commonly to have been written "mobh," and "phizz" also had the double consonant. Hence his complaint that "we crum one syllable and cut off the rest, as the owl fattened her men after she had bit off their legs to prevent them from running away."

One man advertised a special sale and sold 500 of the things advertised. Another man advertised a special sale and had but three callers. The difference in advertising. It was due to the proper advertisement.

INSURGENTS WIN VICTORY ON WHOLE TICKET IN PRIMARY VOTE.

KENT LEADS FOR CONGRESS

Miram W. Johnson Wins Sweeping Victory in Race for Governor, Carrying Every County—Insurgents Gain Two for Congress.

San Francisco, Aug. 18.—After making bitter war on the corporation and the boss as factors in politics, Miram Johnson, the insurgent candidate for governor, swept the state at the primaries, winning by nearly 30,000 plurality, according to late returns.

All the candidates of the Lincoln-Roosevelt league have been carried to victory by Johnson.

In addition to this the insurgent candidates for congress were successful in nearly every district. These candidates were also aided by the popularity of Johnson.

The Democrats entered the primaries with perfect harmony as to their nominees, and Theodore Bell will make the fight against Johnson for election. But one hint of discord marred the Democratic slate. E. P. Troy and Walter MacArthur striving for the nomination in the Fourth congressional district, MacArthur apparently has won the race, and will oppose Julius Kahn, Republican incumbent, who had no contest for election. Popularity is Factor.

In the Republican gubernatorial fight, around which the whole contest centered, Johnson's closest rival was Charles F. Curry, running on the strength of his own political machine. Alden Anderson, the regular, was hopelessly distanced, not securing a single county.

The question now before the voters of the state is the election itself. Democratic leaders are declaring supreme confidence in Bell's ability to defeat Johnson, basing their predictions on the splits in the Republican ranks. Bell and Johnson have made similar declaration of principles and the battle will be one of personality largely, if the Republicans are able to harmonize before election day.

McKinley Defeat Decisive.

Two stalwart congressmen—Duncan McKinley in the Second district and James McLachlan in the Seventh—apparently have been defeated. William E. Kent, formerly of Chicago, for whom Clifford Pinchot "stumped" the Second district, leads McKinley by a decisive margin, while W. D. Stephens has a similar lead over McLachlan. E. A. Hines, Insurgent incumbent from the Fifth district, has been renominated. Englebright and Smith, regulars, in the First and Eighth districts, respectively, are probably beaten on the face of the returns. In the other California districts, three in number, the present stalwart representatives were not opposed.

Figures on the advisory vote for United States senator to succeed Frank P. Flint are far from complete, but in all of the returns John D. Works, the chosen of the Lincoln-Roosevelt league, appears to be in the lead. The Insurgent faction will have a good working minority in the state legislature.

UNEARTH PLAN TO LOOT ROAD.

Burlington Detectives Tell of Scheme of Confederates and Agents.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 18.—A big sensation is brewing in Burlington railroad circles, due to the discovery just made that through a systematic arrangement between a number of conductors, trainmen, telegraphers and others the road has been defrauded out of probably hundreds of thousands of dollars. The scheme is supposed to extend over the Burlington's entire western system.

A half dozen conductors and one train agent on the road's Omaha division were summarily dismissed as a result of the find.

The alleged plan of operating was simple. The ticket agent, it is claimed, would sell a ticket for a certain train, give the number of the ticket to the conductor of that train, who, instead of punching the pasteboard, would return it to the ticket agent without making a report to the company. The agent would place the ticket on sale again and divide with the conductor.

In announcing his decision Judge Landis stated that the declination in the cases of the other three co-defendants, W. W. Shaw, George M. Whittle and W. A. Holander, would be considered at a later date.

Following the freedom of Mr. Urion from the charge, Attorney Major predicted that the three other respondents, whose final hearing was postponed until Monday, September 19, would also be cleared of the charge.

Mr. Sherman will accept the temporary chairmanship of the Republican state convention even though, as he admitted, his election over Colonel Roosevelt does not make for harmony.

WHY AGITATION?

A very weak place in the insurgent attitude at present is its demand for tariff revision. To begin with, there is always the risk here of arousing among the great body of the people the feeling that the advocates of revision are returning, or aiming to return, to the unpleasantly remembered period of tariff thinking. Any attempt to revise the tariff under the present system of tariff framing is certain to result in the opening of the whole question, which is simply another way of saying that it is certain to plunge congress and the country into a period of tariff agitation, industrial unrest, financial distrust and general commercial disturbance. This has been the experience of the past.

Under our present tariff-making system the tariff is more of a political than an economic question. What is good for the party—other parties—takes precedence of what is good for the country. Honest, thinking, patriotic men have long been seeking a means and an opportunity of lifting the tariff question completely out of the domain of politics and out of the hands of politicians. They have found in the tariff board the thin edge of the wedge that will eventually separate the tariff and politics for good. The tariff board is certain, if permitted to operate along the lines marked out for it, to lead to the formation of a tariff commission, which shall be permanent, which shall be non-partisan, which shall be composed not of politicians but of experts in industrial affairs—and this commission will frame our tariffs in the future.

It will be unwise for the insurgents to attempt to precipitate a tariff fight at this time, or at any time pending the carrying out of the tariff commission idea, an event that cannot be long delayed. They will be serving the cause in which they are enlisted much more effectively by helping along the movement toward permanent and real tariff reform. What is most needed now is that the tariff commission idea shall be backed by all the power the foes of a political tariff system can command. It needs behind it only the moral force that has given civil service reform its present standing in order to become an established institution.

AMERICA'S CHANCE.

In 1868 the Mikado of Japan abandoned his pretensions of divinity, committed his pontifical authority to the priesthood, suppressed the Shogunate, declared his intention to reign as a temporal sovereign, decreed a representative government for his country, swept away the old monetary system and ordered an imperial coinage. This remarkable revolution is called the Reform of Meiji.

China is now adopting precisely the same measures, only with the greater deliberation due to the ample dimensions of the empire; the time fixed for the reformation being nine years hence. Meanwhile the provincial representatives now assembled at Pekin, and constituting a sort of constitutional convention, have asked the regent, Prince Chun, to grant them legislative powers at once instead of waiting until 1920. The answer is: "You must wait; the time is not ripe; local difficulties have first to be settled and financial arrangements perfected."

It is in the public interest that Americans should take an active part in helping China to complete her great reform, especially the money part of it, for that alone will furnish a key to the open door and justify our construction of the Panama canal. The quantity of silver which China may require must, in some measure, depend on the kind of a policy inaugurated, and on the extent to which it is put into practice.

The five hundred million silver dollars needed to carry out the financial part of the larger program would cost an American syndicate the same as Mexican dollars, 44 cents each, or $220,000,000 in gold. At seven percent compounded this sum would double itself in ten and a quarter years; at six per cent it would double in twelve years. If the silver is secured now for future delivery and the Chinese absorption should cause the price to rise, there would be an additional profit in the transaction.

The security is good; the time is propitious; interest is low; and wouldn't it be a good scheme to exchange a few cablegrams with Pekin on this subject, instead of waiting upon London or Paris?

A POLITICAL PROCESS.

As in Great Britain, there exists in the United States a period of quiet in political matters; in both there is little political event, but the absence of affirmative incident is no sign whatever that there is not happening a great deal of interest far more profound than what is called political.

On the contrary, a process of civil and political fermentation is taking place; elements are taking new positions. Interests that have been silent hitherto are finding voice, forces are being trained and directed in new quarters, and all the marks of an approaching change, gradual but inevitable, are to be seen. That in the United States this process is not much noticed about and in its details is not comprehensively exhibited, does not mean that it may not overshadow a great and wholesome stride on the part of the nation toward victory of the right.

Like many other great changes in a nation's history, it has begun in more or less inchoate expression and has born a nebulous and indistinct shape, nevertheless by this day we all know what to call it and do so by the name of "insurgency." Like many names that have had a chance birth, it is satisfactory in some ways and not in others, but for our purposes today it defines well enough a man that will not have his rights hampered by the arbitrary will of others, who can give no better reason in many cases than that a party can be above ideas. This name may have been given originally as a term intended to ridicule, but it also can have the meaning that those who bear it have desired to preserve their liberty of opinion in political as in personal matters. In this latter sense, it is a most honorable one and can grow into quite as much dignity as many other titles that political parties have borne.

But it is very far from the stage where it can be applied in the United States to a party, the cleavage between the existing parties being what it is and the differences inside the parties themselves being as great as they are. Nevertheless, "insurgency" means that there are many that will not have their votes dictated or their consciences directed, and with this in common between them, they can form at least a nucleus of political uprightness by which the nation might to profit.

Grant T. Fisher has been nominated, practically, for the office of assemblyman in the second district. He has no opposition at the republican primaries and in selecting him the voters will show their good judgment, and it is to be hoped the voters of the third district will demonstrate equally good judgment and nominate Charles Gault to represent them.

Laurence Whittet of the first assembly district is a man who rises above the petty differences of his own immediate neighborhood and is so broad-minded that the average political healer can not appreciate his worth. If he is not nominated the county will lose one of the strongest men that has represented it in years.

Candidate S. A. Cook was a Janesville visitor on Wednesday and he told the old soldiers of the Thirteenth a few stories and then hastened away to attend another similar gathering in Waukesha county. Mr. Cook is a loyal citizen and thinks more of the flag than many a man who seeks an office for his own personal, selfish ends.

Mr. Cooper's adherents are very daring in their charges against candidate Ingalls and it would not be surprising if court proceedings follow the bitter personal attack that was published by a Beloit paper which the postmaster of the Line City and Mr. Cooper control.

Edwin Ramon is the man to receive your votes for sheriff. Mr. Ramon is a man of sterling character and is capable and well-fitted to hold the office he seeks. It is to be trusted that the voters of the county will fit to honor him.

Former Congressman Cook is very much in earnest in his fight for the United States senatorship but he wants it understood he is going there—if nominated and elected—to represent the people and not Mr. Cook and his own personal ambition.

The hard times of '93 are within the memory of the present generation, still the spirit of unrest of the American people seems to be such that they have to be taught a lesson every few years to make them realize they are not supreme.

That fish and oyster story from Porto Rico might have sounded true if told by Marco Polo, one of the Barbary pirates, when they first discovered America's supposed wealth, but still it seems a bit questionable just now.

They still talk of imperialism in national affairs; that is, some of the aspiring politicians do, the same as the old-time Free Silver democrats shouted about their favorite slogan in 1896.

Anyone who complains that this present summer has been too cool must have lived somewhere in the region of an ice plant. It has been hot enough to fry eggs on the pavements most of the time.

Some folks do not know that the late impeachment among Wisconsin republicans is over and that the former factional differences have been buried under the banner of Taft and republicanism.

It was Sir Walter Ralegh that first introduced smoking into Europe and today one of the sources of revenue of the American tobacco growers is the European market.

The other day a tourist vessel sighted for the first time in years, in the far northern sea that Sir Henry Hudson discovered centuries ago.

One does not hear of the sea serpent this year. What has become of this fabled monster of the deep that helped advertise the summer resorts when times were dull?

That New York situation seems to bother some of those astute eastern politicians a whole lot more than it does Roosevelt or Taft.

Heart to Heart Talks.
By EDWIN A. NYE.

THE BOY WHO PUSHED.

George M. Posey of Indianapolis, Ind., is a young man who got up in the world by pushing.

A few years ago George, aged eighteen, was almost without education, being barely able to read and write. He drove a butcher's wagon and thus supported himself and his aged grandmother.

An Indianapolis minister saw in the boy a diamond in the rough.

Through the minister he got a vision of better things.

That is the only way we humans are ever led—by our dreams of what ought to be.

The minister advised George to educate himself.

The boy hesitated, but after a time, when he could be applied in the United States to a party, the cleavage between the existing parties being what it is and the differences inside the parties themselves being as great as they are. Nevertheless, "insurgency" means that there are many that will not have their votes dictated or their consciences directed, and with this in common between them, they can form at least a nucleus of political uprightness by which the nation might to profit.

To earn a living young Posey sold newspapers. Before long he organized a system of newspaper delivery, employing smaller boys. He was successful in this.

In three years, at twenty-one, Posey had prepared himself to enter college. In the meantime his grandmother, whom he had tenderly cared for, died.

Then the young man sold his newspaper routes for a good price and entered college, paying his way by outside work. At last reports he was preparing for the law.

George Posey will succeed.

Asked how he had accomplished so much in so little time and under such a handicap, he replied:

"By pushing all the time."

That's it!

Did you ever try to get up to the platform through a dense crowd of people? At first the feet seem impossible. But you push, and you continue to push. Using your body as a wedge, you steadily keep forcing your way. Little by little people in front of you give way. Holding the vantage ground, you keep on pushing, and by and by you get through.

Just so does the world get out of the way of the boy or man who pushes.

The world is so intent upon its own amusement or its busy nothingness that when a determined individual shoulders his way into it it gives way and lets him go through.

Push, young man! For verily of the Pusher is the Kingdom of Success.

The right kind of advertising makes a good impression upon hundreds of readers each night. Though such good impressions will get increased business for you. It matters not whether you run a dry goods store, a restaurant or anything, the principle is the same.

Uncle Walt

THE POET PHILOSOPHER
By WALT MASON.
(Copyright, 1900, by George Matthew Adams.)

When I have lived a few more years where city noises rise, where buildings stand in rows and tiers, and smoke obscures the sides, I'll seek me out a hermitage, a place of grass and trees, and there I'll write life's final page among the birds and bees. Among the bees and birds I'll dwell, remote from churning town, and chase myself through grove and dell, and watch the sun go down. I'll seek the cowslip and the rose, and lie in my own hay, exulting in the breeze that blows from islands far away. I'll watch the little lambs perform their gambols on the tea, and guard the children from the storm—ah, that's life for me! This is the life of work, at a desk, in shackles that scraps the sides, and using language picturesquely concerning hungry flies, is not the life for man ordained, 'tis but the treadmill's toll; how lucky he who has attained close quarters with the soil! He revels in the rain that pours upon the fragrant sod; his heritage is out of doors, and there he vibrates.

A search was made throughout the town and with newspaper assistance the lost child was restored to the distressed mother.

Had Babies Mixed.

While shopping in Shenandoah, Pa., Mrs. Katie Dunsmock of Centralia left her one-month-old daughter in a go-cart outside of a department store, and when, completing her purchase, began to push home a carriage which she apparently thought was hers. After traveling several squares Mrs. Dunsmock noticed her error and became frantic that officers had to restrain her.

CITY MAY BE ONE OF FIRST TO GET GOVERNMENT BANK

Postmaster Valentine Has Asked That Janesville Office Be Among Earliest to Have Postal Savings Bank.

Janesville may be among the first cities in the country to install in the postoffice one of the postal savings banks, operated under the direction of the United States government by employees at the postoffice, and authorized by a bill passed during the session of congress just concluded.

Postmaster C. L. Valentine has written to the postoffice department at Washington asking that Janesville be designated among the first offices where the postal savings banks are to be established.

In a statement made this morning, Postmaster Valentine explains his reasons for asking for the postal bank for Janesville.

"I know," he said, "that there is in Rock county a lot of what is termed 'hidden money'—money that is not in circulation and that is being put in various hiding places instead of the savings banks of the nation. In my experience in the register of deeds office and here in the postoffice I have handled much of this money, and I know there is a large amount that is never stored in the bank vaults. One third of the money in Rock county, I should say, is not accounted for anywhere. With the postal savings bank, it is hoped to bring in the money of these people who hesitate about trusting the banks of the city. There are any amount of people who are fearful of the banks, and while there has never been a bank in Janesville that has ever failed, there seems to be a distrust among some. It would also encourage the young people and get them to put their money away where it would be safe and yet payable on demand. The plan for the proposed banking system is being worked out at Washington now. It will probably be operated in this office, if Janesville is given a postal savings bank by the department, much the same as the money order office."

The proposed postal savings bank system was intended first to be installed in offices of the second and third classes, but Janesville, which is what is designated by the department as a first-class office, may be fortunate enough to secure one of these early, besides the hidden money, it is hoped the bank will encourage the saving of small sums. Deposits of ten cents or any multiple of ten cents will be accepted. In this connection, it is stated that stamps, handsome in design, will be issued to those who deposit only ten cents, and when ten of the stamps are procured and turned into the office where the bank is located, a certificate of deposit for one dollar will be given and the deposit will commence to draw interest.

New Duties for R. F. D. Men.

In a recent order of the department, published in the Daily Bulletin, the official paper of the postmaster general, rural free delivery carriers are authorized to adjudicate any and all cases that by law are required to be made by pensioners and their witnesses in the execution of their vouchers, and they are to be compensated for receiving such a voucher twenty-five cents. The order gives the rural carriers the same authority as officers with a seal.

New Money Order Blanks.

An illustration of the way the department is working to cut down expenses is illustrated in the new money order blank which are issued to each office as soon as the supply of the old style blanks be exhausted. Heretofore, an "advice," a copy of the original money order, made by a carbon paper, has been sent to the paying postmaster. The "advice" is left on the new blanks. When the new blanks are in use all over the country it is expected that a large saving will be made in expenses.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—At the expense of a girl he has never seen or met, Orme saves a man from arrest and causes a traffic jam on State street. He buys a new hat and is given in charge a five dollar bill with "Remember person you pay this to" written on it. A second man helps the girl in the bus and leaves him. In Fox and Jessie Wallingham they have mutual friends, but gets no further hint of her identity. In his rooms at the Park Marquette he telephones Jessie Wallingham and agrees to meet at Arabelle's on the morrow. He discovers the name inscribed on the marked bill, which, in a futile attempt to decipher it, he copies and places the copy in a drawer.

CHAPTER II.—Sanor Portiol, South American, calls and claims the marked bill. Orme refuses to give it up. Portiol attacks Orme in overtones and his anger drives Orme to leave his country to search for him. Alcanteante tries diplomacy to get the bill. Orme is suspicious and dismisses him with a promise to keep the bill until ten tomorrow morning. The other man tells Orme that Jessie has called for him but goes away without leaving name or message.

CHAPTER III.—Orme goes for an evening walk and in Lincoln park rescues Alcanteante from two Japanese assassins. Alcanteante again tries diplomacy but fails to get the marked bill. On his return to the Park Marquette Orme is dragged by two Japanese into the tunnel-like passage to the courtyard, forced into silent submission and a forced exchange of the marked bill for another he selected. His assailants escape. He notes one of them has a scarred forehead. Was it possible that—?

He put his hand into the left side pocket of his coat. Something was there that did not belong there—a smooth, bulging purse. Alcanteante had it there.

Orme fingered the purse. He would have to get rid of it, but he dared not drop it to the floor, and if he thrust it through the grating and let it fall into the elevator well, some one would be almost certain to detect the action.

There was only a moment left before the car would stop. He looked down at Alcanteante, who was close in front of him. Then his face relaxed and in spite of the gravity of his situation he smiled; for he had found a solution.

Promptly he acted upon it.

The car halted just below the ceiling of the first floor. "What's the matter with you?" called a voice—the voice of the starter.

"Man robbed," said the elevator boy.

"Bring the car down."

"No!" shouted Alcanteante. "The thief is in the car. He must not escape."

"I won't let him out. Bring the car down."

The boy let the car descend to the floor level. The starter placed himself against the halo. "Now then, who was neared?"

"The boat's exhaust indicates a break-down. Orme and Portiol go out in another boat and find the crippled one. It is the Jap with the papers and—"

CHAPTER V.—In the University grounds at Evanston Orme locates the hideout, Makai and another Jap are there. Orme falls sick with a fever, but the other man comes in, disguised with the papers. Orme finds in Makai's pockets a folded slip of paper. At the girl's request he takes her and the car to the home of her friend in Evanston. She starts out in the black touring car in quest of the missing papers.

CHAPTER VI.—Orme goes back to the university grounds and finds a boat from Portiol, on guard at the life-saving station, that Makai is inside. They hear a motor boat out on the lake and Orme suggests that Makai get out on the dock. But Portiol is keeping the boat from the boat's exhaust indicates a break-down. Orme and Portiol go out in another boat and find the crippled one. It is the Jap with the papers and—"

CHAPTER VII.—The two boats close in. Orme jumps into Orme's boat. The boat, Orme and the Jap, are now swimming in the water. They have been swimming since they have been in the water. The boat is moving and distances pursue down the lake. Orme again takes the girl to her friend's home. On the way she explains her presence in the boat. "I will get those papers," she says.

CHAPTER VIII.—Boarding a car for the city, Orme finds Makai on it and tricks him hoping through him to find the Jap who has the papers. In a short quarter Makai confronts Orme and reveals that he is not available. But Orme is keeping the boat from the boat's exhaust indicates a break-down. Orme and Portiol go out in another boat and find the crippled one. It is the Jap with the papers and—"

CHAPTER X.—Arline has callers—Alcanteante, Portiol and the Japanese. Orme, under the table, finds a loose drawer containing the stolen papers and substitutes for them some mailing postcards. Japanese and South Americans are enough to convince him that the news of international importance, with a time limit for signatures of that night midnight. Arline produces the papers from the drawer, detecting Orme's presence and the subterfuge is discovered.

CHAPTER XI.—The girl appears again after being told that "the American" has the papers. Alcanteante and the Japanese inhibitor agree to work together to find the American and the papers. They are about to leave when Arline goes into another room. Orme attempts to get away, is discovered and set upon by Arline and Makai, down them both, and climbs the fire-escape to Arline's flat. He kills him in her closet.

CHAPTER XII.—Orme escapes in a giant swimming suit, which is worn by Arline. Arline and Arline, who have to know Orme is, are too much interested in the spirit to see him. On the sidewalk, he encounters Alcanteante.

To embarrass Orme with arrest and detention would well suit the purpose of Alcanteante. At this late hour such an event would prevent the delivery of the papers. Orme wondered whether the minister had realized that the papers might be found by the police and disposed of properly. The explanation of this apparent oversight on the part of Alcanteante was not difficult, however, for perhaps it was not a part of the plan that Orme should be actually thrown into a cell. It was more likely that an arrest would be followed, after as much delay as Alcanteante could secure, by a refusal to prosecute. One advantage to Alcanteante would be the opportunity of getting assistance while Orme was in the hands of the police so that after the prisoner was released he would have more than one person to contend with. Alcanteante would give up acting alone.

"Somebody has my purse!" Alcanteante was shouting. "Somebody here! You must not let anybody out!"

The elevator boy had been gaping in seeming paralysis, but now several of the passengers—men who doubtless were aware of their positions—were angrily ordering him to take the car down. Some of them had drawn knives. Some had drawn

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, August 18, 1870.—The File Manufacturing Company last night, at the court room to induce the Chicago File Manufacturing Company to locate their establishment in this city, was well attended; and the interest manifested at the previous meeting kept up.

Mayor Doe, the chairman of the meeting stated that many citizens had spoken to him regarding the reliability of the File company, and in answer he was prepared to vouch for their respectability, and the honesty of their intentions, as he was well acquainted with Mr. Smith, the president.

Mr. McNeill presented the plans of the contemplated works, and gave the reasons of the company for locating out of Chicago. He also said that the demand for their work was such as to necessitate an increase of facilities, and that hereafter they would employ at least one hundred workers.

J. H. Doe, A. A. Jackman, and Frank Millmore, were appointed as a committee to confer with the president of the company.

The following gentlemen were appointed a committee to solicit subscriptions: H. J. Richardson, J. T.

The secretary of the company, McNeill, is highly pleased with the advantages Janesville possesses for manufacturers of this nature, and doubtless a reasonable offer would secure the location of the works at this point.

NOTTINGS.—The fire alarm this afternoon was caused by the burning of two barns on the corner of Lincoln and Holmes streets, in the 4th Ward, belonging to Wm. MacLean and Zenus Hitchcock. Cause unknown. Both structures were in ashes before the hose of the steamers was laid into the river to the scene of the fire.

The dedication of the Court Street Methodist Church, this afternoon, was attended by a large crowd of people. Up to the time our paper went to press $3,000 had been collected from the congregation and the work was still going on.

Our Mutuals left this morning to play the Cream Citys of Milwaukee. Our club has not been in a weaker condition since its reorganization than it is for this game, and the result will probably be a bad defeat.

The Ticklemouse —and his Sleepyland Adventures

By Roy Rutherford Bailey with Davy and Dorfy

Lemonade Pool

TICKLEMOUSE, but I'm just too full to move! If I know—

"Ice cream!" said Davy at once.

"Wild honey!" squeaked Teddy bear.

"Cheese sandwich!" squealed Willie Wishingmouse.

"Dorfy hasn't said anything," smiled the Mouse. "Ladies first—Dorfy, you decide."

"Well," said the little girl, "I like cold things on a night like this—but ice cream costs so much. Couldn't we have lemonade?"

"A barrel of it, bless your heart!"

The Ticklemouse rumbled about and found an empty finger bowl. He tickled the edge of the bowl till it began to bubble at the bottom, slowly filling with ice cold lemonade!

Then he waved his paws over it, saying some strange words. It grew to the size of a punch bowl—brimming with the most delicious lemonade the twins had ever tasted! They filled their glasses and drank it through straws.

"All you can hold?" smiled the Mouse at last.

"Then let's go fishing."

Davy groaned. "I'd love to, Making!" And to their surprise the bowl began to widen out into a great crystal pool. Something floated in the middle.

"Fish?" asked Teddy, staring.

"Seeds. But wait a moment," said the Mouse, "and there'll be fish worth angling for." The next minute the seeds, grown to the size of bass and pickerel, dived to the bottom with a splash.

"Now the fishpoles." The Ticklemouse fitted each straw with a silvery colubus for a line, the end tied in a running noose. "Watch 'em grow!" he cried and soon each of the five had a splendid fishing outfit. Dorfy had just made fast to a big fish when a sour voice called from a dark corner of the room. "Get out of my lemonade pool!" Something shimmied toward them, fierce and angry. "It's old Lemon Squeezie himself!" yelled the Ticklemouse. "I forgot about him—run, everybody!"

And before the twins got back to their nursery that night, the angry old Lemon Squeezie had chased them all over Doverville. But then, as the Ticklemouse said afterward, exercise after fishing is as healthful as rest after labor!

Never mind—we'll just stay a-fish-

Quest of Quotidie.

"It's a long way to look forward," said Mr. Cumrox; "but I constantly find myself wishing the Fourth of July would come round again."

"Is life too slow for you?"

"I should say not. Mother and the girls are getting up lawn parties and afternoon teas and sailing trips and motor excursions and a lot of other things. It's getting so that the Fourth of July seems like the only safe and sane day in the year."
